The Murivian THE BROOKLINE HIGH SCHOOL YEAR BOOK

Brookline High School, 115 Greenough Street
Brookline, Massachusetts 02146

May 15, 1981

Dear Dr. McCarthy,

We the staff of the Murivian would like to welcome you back to Brookline High School and congratulate you on being elected to such a respectable position. Over the past few years, the High School has undergone many changes, both in its physical appearance and in its citizens. Realizing that you have been away during these changes and that, furthermore, you have become accustomed to a small, rural high school instead of a large, busy, and cosmopolitan one such as ours, we would like to help you become reacquainted with Brookline and its people.

Being part of the Murivian staff, we are constantly in contact with the many types of people that make up Brookline High School. We have spent a great deal of time observing and documenting the traits of the seven major categories of people at the High School and have decided that you would benefit from our insight.

In the following publication, we have organized our information into seven folders, each representing one of the aforementioned categories. We are sharing this information with you in the hope that it will allow you to better understand the varied behavior of the citizens of the school, and consequently allow you to better relate to them.

We the staff of the Murivian hope that you will enjoy a long and successful career as Headmaster of Brookline High School and believe that the following information will be helpful in realizing this goal.

Sincerely,

The Murivian Staff

I would like to express my congratulations to the Class of 1981 on their graduation from Brookline High School.

Since you entered the school in 1977 many changes have occurred in the school community. While it has been a tradition for the senior class to leave a gift to the school, to maintain in some way the spirit of the class in the ensuing years, perhaps the greatest gift this class has left Brookline High School has been their willingness to work to improve the quality of life at Brookline High School. Your willingness to be decent and caring of your fellow students has set a positive tone at Brookline High School.

I am confident that as members of the Class of 1981 become involved in the adult world, other communities will benefit from that quality.

Robert B. McCarthy
Headmaster

ATHLETE ('ath-let),

[from French, athlon: prize, contest;] 1. One who is trained to compete. 2. the sorest form of life at a high school in Brookline, Massachusetts. 3. any of a species of common student life known to:

1. talk about scores and rankings.
2. wear sweatshirts
3. complain about sore muscles.
4. use sports as an excuse for almost anything.
5. vary their mood depending on the latest score.
6. wear "wiffles".
7. eat a lot.
8. complain about having to miss General Hospital.
9. walk like a gorilla.
10. worry about their brand of sneakers.
11. be the loudest in the cafeteria.
12. carry around sports equipment (i.e. lacrosse sticks)

Set.

The Volleyball team had an outstanding season, finishing with a record of ten wins and four losses tying for second place in the Suburban League, and qualifying for the state tournament. In the South sectional's, Brookline finished fourth with nine wins and five loses in Round Robin play. With the hard work and dedication displayed by the athletes, Brookline Volleyball will continue to have a winning tradition.

This year's Cross Country Team had a successful season, although a better record had been hoped for. Several runners gave outstanding performances when the situation seemed hopeless; others improved tremendously this season and showed great promise for next year. The whole squad was very dedicated and Coach Norman Laasko was the key to its success.

CLUB (klub),

1. a mass of something. 2. a heavy stick, usually thinner at one end, used as a weapon. 3. a group of people related by a common interest or goal. 4. an organization which sponsors or organizes an EVENT. 5. the most abundant and diverse form of social organizations at a high school in Brookline, Massachusetts, reputed to display the following characteristics:

1. promises that it's going to be different this year.
2. plans meetings and have no one come.
3. has over one hundred percent attendance when it's time to take the Murivian picture.
4. competes with other clubs for poster space.
5. has claim on at least one room in the school.
6. is found at school at odd hours.
7. thinks about an event for months; does the actual arranging in a week.
8. raises less money than planned; spends more money than has.
9. uses homeroom envelopes as the postal service.
10. meets once in September to elect the president and the officers. Meets again in February to promote some and oust others. Meets for the last time in June to celebrate a successful season of political activity.

FACULTY (fakulti),

[from Latin, facultat-(em): capability, power; also from Latin, facil-(is): easy.]1. organized body of recognized teachers, of all ranks, who represent each of the great branches of knowledge. 2. capacity, aptitude for any form of action or performance. 3. the most befuddled form of life at a high school in Brookline, Massachusetts. 4. any of a species of common academic life known to:

1. be addicted to caffeine.
2. either dress well or dress like students.
3. worry about Proposition 2½.
4. threaten to send awols but are too lazy to send them to the office.
5. be found only when not wanted.
6. when on patrol duty, prop themselves up against the wall and try to look alive.
7. always be covered with chalk.
8. arrive at school hours on advance in order to find a parking space.
9. have never planned to be a teacher.
10. chain smoke in the faculty lounge.
11. go to countless meetings (and skip countless more).

SCHOOL WITHIN A SCHOOL

JUNIOR (joonyer),

[from Latin "junior" — young]1. of less standing; subordinate. 2. duplicating or suggesting, on a small or diminished scale, something typically large or powerful. 3. the busiest form of life at a high school in Brookline, Massachusetts. 4. any of a species of common student life known to:

1. take United States History.
2. complain about PSAT's, then SAT's, then achievement tests.
3. never be on time.
4. eat salads for lunch.
5. carry around Barron's books.
6. do a lot of extracurricular activities to put on their college applications.
7. learn how to drive a car.
8. begin to show the effects of long night of studying.
9. finally speak to their guidance counselor for more than five minutes.

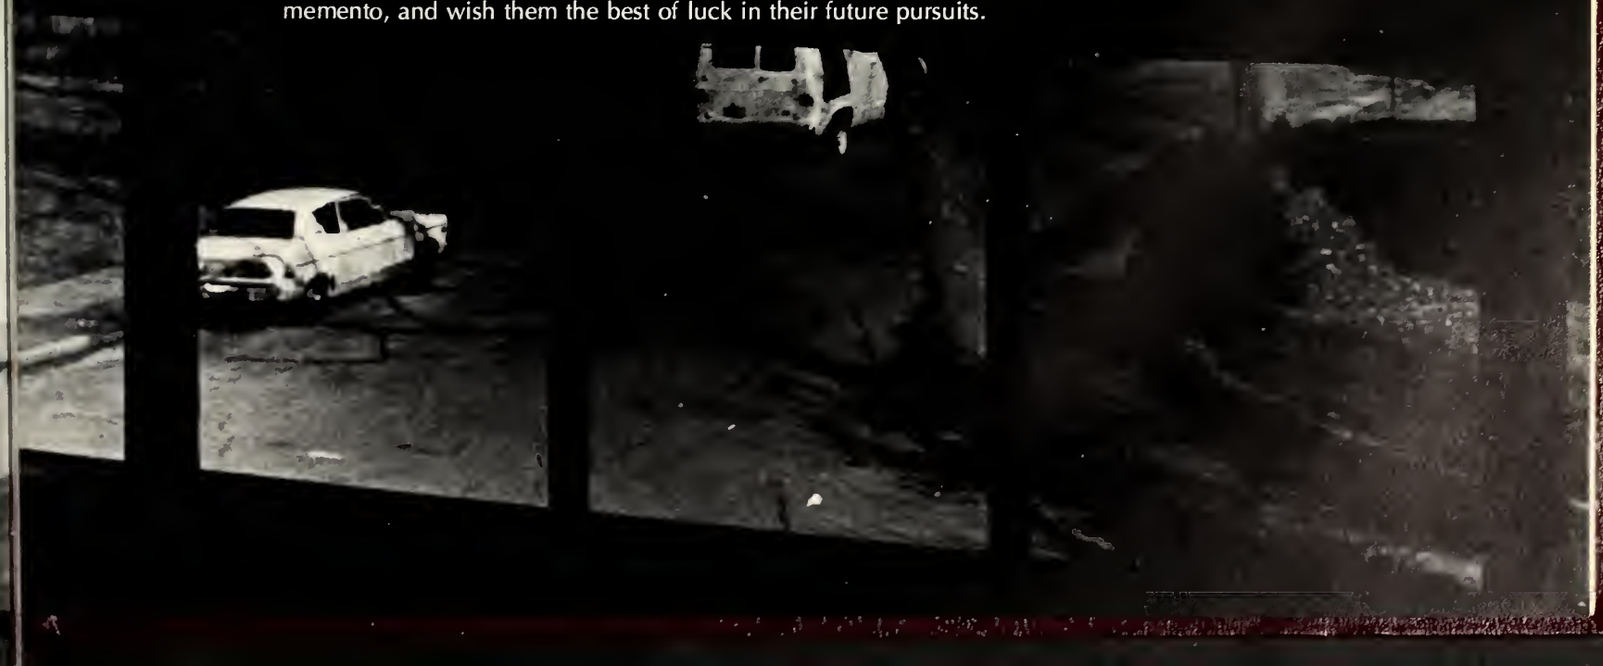
BROOKLINE
65

SLC

The Murivian Staff hopes that the information presented in this publication has been of assistance to the students and faculty of Brookline High School. After viewing this book, one should be able to distinguish seven forms of life in this community. These are by no means the only groups found here, but are the most familiar with which we all interact. It is anticipated that this book will be used as a reference to furnish typical information about the people in this community, and to help familiarize everyone with life here at Brookline High.

We would like to thank the members of the Class of 1981 for leaving their autographs as a memento, and wish them the best of luck in their future pursuits.



BHS IS . . .

Turfs and cliques.

A melting pot of people.

A nice place to visit but I wouldn't want to live there.

A day-care center.

A great school as far as schools go.

Certainly not the French Riviera.

A drag.

Hellos in the hallway.

The lighthouse school.

Underclassmen who get shorter every year.

Tacos with soybean filling.

Trying to eat a salad in five minutes.

BHS IS . . .

Frisbee in the quadrangle

Whitey

No more recess

Strange noises from the fourth floor

Having to take C.P.R.

Preppies, Jocks, and Hoodsies

Dropping Physics for Basketweaving II

Selling fifth floor pool tickets to Freshmen

Hostess fruit pies and Twinkies

Asking your teacher to take a test a day late

Being kicked out of the library

Pep rallies without pep
